Wed In Double Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Faye Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Twyman Coleman of Appomattox, to James Hardaway White, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. White of Sandston, took place the afternoon of August 2 at 3 o'clock in Liberty Baptist Church, and the Rev. Charlie Bradley, pastor of Antioch Baptist Church in Sandston, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Doris Henrick, soloist, and Mrs. J. Franklin Vaughan, organist, both of Lynchburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of white silk organza designed with an Empire bodice of Venise lace. The bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline and long, full bishop sleeves. The skirt extended into a chapel train. The bride's bouffant veil of silk tulle fell from a demi-cap of Venise flowers. Her only accessories were a single strand of pearls belonging to her aunt and a lace-trimmed handkerchief which she carried that had belonged to her paternal grandmother. She carried an arm bouquet of white and pink majestic daisies centered with a white bridal orchid.

Miss Kathryn Isabelle Coleman was maid of honor for her sister. Honor attendants were Mrs. Ronald Marshall Coleman and Mrs. Dan Gordon Coleman, sisters-in-law of the bride. They wore slipper length gowns of pale pink dotted swiss designed along Empire lines with full bishop sleeves. Crocheted pink and white daisies accented the sheer sleeves and detachable deep pink train. The matching headpieces were French circlets trimmed with a bow and a short veil of illusion. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of three pink majestic daisies showered with ribbons while the honor attendants carried similar bouquets of two pink majestic daisies.

Other attendants were Miss Sarah Ruff Braford of Concord; Miss Linda Lee Beasley of Montpelier; Miss Sabara Jean Gillen of Sandston, cousin of the bridegroom; Mrs. Henry Victor Schwarting of Newport News; and Mrs. Henry Broderick Peck III., of Appomattox. They wore gowns identical to those of the honor attendants and they each carried a single majestic daisy.

Miss Beverly Kim Coleman, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her floor-length dress of white dotted swiss was fashioned with a snug bodice, scoop neckline, and bishop sleeves. Crocheted pink and white daisies encircled the waist. Her headpiece was fashioned of pink ribbon loops which ended in streamers accented with crocheted daisies. She carried a basket of daisy petals. Master Michael Keith Marshall, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Mr. White was best man for his son. Groomsmen were John Joseph Westbrook, Jr., Gordon Pascal Wilson, Richard Vaughan Luck, all of Sandston; Philip Allen Thomas of Richmond; Ronald Marshall Coleman, Dan Gordon Coleman, and Philip Twyman Coleman, brothers of the bride and all of Appomattox.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the church social hall. Background music at the reception was provided by Philip Twyman Coleman, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Appomattox High School and the College of William and Mary. She is employed by the Henrico County School Board and is organist for Antioch Baptist Church in Sandston. The bridegroom is a graduate of Highland Springs High School and will be a student at John Tyler Community College. He is employed by Western Auto in Sandston.

Vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and white tapers in cathedral candelabra were arranged against a background of palms to form the setting for the exchange of vows.

An Appealing Memorial

(Taken from the Editoral pg. of The Progress-Index)

A memorial which should attract much public support is the aimed at community betterment. It was remarkable that a man with such demanding business interests should have found time for so wide a range of public services. It was more remarkable that he gave them his best efforts, not just his name.

Whether he was working in some relatively modest cause or on one of the most important boards of the state, his associates were impressed by his deep interest in people and their welfare. His participation in the affairs of Central State Hospital and the Petersburg Training School, as well as those of the other hospitals with which he was connected, left no doubt that he was sharing his compassion as well as his grasp of financial and administrative problems.

In addition to personal sorrow there is a sense of community loss over the passing of a man who might have had many more years of public service.

Abbitt Urges Strong Approval Of Bill On Campus Disorders

Washington - Representative Watkins M. Abbitt (D-Va.) today urged congressional approval of strong language in the Labor-HEW Appropriations Bill which would prevent the use of Federal funds to provide assistance to those who engage in campus disorders.

Abbitt, who several months ago introduced a bill which would cut off Federal aid to any college and university which failed to take corrective action against disorders, hailed the language in the appropriations bill which he said would go a long way towards meeting the problem.

In a speech to the House the Congressman said this "is a matter of grave national importance and one with which this Congress needs to deal forthrightly before the resumption of classes in the fall."

He pointed out that millions of dollars in Federal funds are being spent in loans to students, research grants, and various projects on college campuses. "It is vital", Abbitt said, "that the Federal interest be protected and it is inexcusable that in the face of recent history the Federal government should be put in the position of subsidizing those who are creating disorder. Anarchy has reigned on many campuses and administrative personnel have been harrassed and literally driven out of their offices. The ROTC program has been placed in serious jeopardy and military research projects of various kinds have been picketed and threatened. To say that there is no Federal interest is in fact to close our eyes to the situation that confronted us last year."

Abbitt charged that large numbers of those who participated in campus disorders are recipients of Federal student loans. "It is ridiculous that the Federal government should be put in the position of subsidizing those who are undermining its authority and creating disturbances which, carried to their logical conclusion, would mean the closing of the institution which they are attending." Abbitt said.

Pointing out that the purpose of Federal education programs is to make educational opportunities available to young Americans, the Congressman said, "To have one segment of college students causing disruption and threatening the operation of the institution while the remainder of the student body is prevented from pursuing their normal activities is defeating the purpose of the program."

He said he did not relish the idea of any extension of Federal authority and said that those who do not create disorder have nothing to fear. "This does not mean that Federal funds will be withdrawn or that the operation of the institutions will be unnecessarily bothered. It simply means that Congress will be saying to those who participate in disorders that they are doing so at the risk of losing their entitlement to Federal financial aid. As long as there is no disorder and the college programs are carried on as they are intended to functions, there will be no implementation of this section. However, if disorders erupt, those who are participants will have to pay the penalty. I think this is only just and fair and is indeed necessary in the situation we now face."
